Fighting Disease in Greece.

Colonel General George Horton has made a report from Athens on the conspicuous work of Greek physicians in combating the country's chief scourge—malaria fever and tuberculosis. An annual average of 2,000 persons die each year from the disease, while in epidemic years, due to excessive rains, the number exceeds 6,000, which was the case in 1905. The population of Greece is 2,335,000. The people have been interested through lectures, pamphlets, etc., in fighting the malaria-carrying mosquito by draining stagnant ponds and throwing petroleum on them. A tuberculosis congress will be held at Athens next year, to which will be invited not only physicians, but all the mayors and other prominent people of Greece.

Many Ways In Which The World Observes Easter

Whether the sun shines forth in splendor or the skies be laden the spiritual and material world is united in celebrating Easter day, the festival of spring. The church has other sacred days, there are other whappings of renewed nature, but Easter Sunday stands forth unique from all other religious festivals.

Many and strange are the observances of Easter Sunday, whose very name has come down to us from the Goddess of the east, who in Roman mythology was Ostia, or Easter. In the new-christian east and its satellites, connected with this day, and its matter, are no indifferent the Christian cannot ignore it. Though it is not until the year 325, at the Council of Nice, that arrangements were inaugurated to determine what day is every year Easter should fall on, and it was decided that Easter day should be the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the calendar moon, which happens on or after March 21, the day not after the lunar meaning of the day. As far back as the time of Pharaoh, when the Egyptians were saved who had shed the blood of the first-born, Easter Sunday was born, and it has lived through strife and church dissensions with all the purity and suggestion of new birth unimpaired.

In the same way its customs have flourished until even their origin has been lost in obscurity. For instance, many unique superstitions have been made regarding Easter eggs, and the theories claiming that eggs were used long before the existence of Easter. Among Egyptians, Greeks and Romans, the egg was the sign of the universe, and for centuries the church itself has considered eggs the symbol of the resurrection, and at first they were dyed red as a symbol of the blood of Christ. Just why this is so, no one can tell with certainty, though many contend that all spiritual rejuvenation was lost in the thought that after 40 days of fasting the early Christians were allowed to eat eggs, and hence valued them as Easter emblems. These eggs are not the only customs where eggs have been used in a spring festival. The people of Persia believe that three eggs fell from heaven, thus bringing priest, king and common people on earth. The Japanese and Chinese look upon them as a type of the whole human soul, and Chinese children are told the story of the hatching of a dragon to have, who appeared as a messenger of spring and left eggs, Italy's children think that if they had an egg laid by a white hen in a new nest, good luck will attend them.

In the place in our country Easter is observed with peculiar observance. This is in the quiet, mountainous village of Bethlehem, which was founded in 1740. Here a Passion week anniversary is held that is regarded for solemnity. Pictures are taken in the town, for from the eve of Palm Sunday through Easter there are many services and collections with the life of Christ. Thus, Palm Sunday is the day of the healing in the temple; Tuesday suggests the giving of the parable, and Thursday brings its sad associations of the Lord's supper. When the sayings of Christ upon the cross are read and the bells toll on Good Friday, the whole passion and death seem very real. It is a relief when Easter morning comes and the funeral tones cease, and the people that they may arise and hasten to the little church, and from that to the cemetery nearby. Here the people stand in a hollow square, and as the dawn, slowly reddens the sky, and the rising sun touches the tree tops, the birds begin their morning anthem and seem to join in the chants of praise which go up from the devout congregation.

MINES AND MINING

More than 20,000,000 short tons of coke were made in the United States last year, an amount about 40,750,000 tons in 1907, a year that broke all records.

A complete outfit of mine tools and tools to be used in developing the property of the Erie Mining company, in Washington district, Beaver county, Utah, has been shipped to the camp.

It developments continue as they are now making, and there is reason to expect that they will, the Eagle and Blue Bell will be one of the next little propositions to come back to earnest life and possible dividends.

From a drift which has been extended twenty feet from the face of a 165-foot tunnel in the Springfield property, just south of the town of Huntington, Nevada, miners are mining coal which is said to be alive with free gas.

Although weather conditions and the ruggedness of the country have combined to prevent anything like extensive development of the several properties being worked are of a most interesting nature.

Gifford Pinchot and Senators Hoyt and Borah of Idaho have approved both Montague, president, and Attorney Norman, secretary of the Sierra Madre club at Los Angeles, their would make addresses at the American mining congress to be held in Los Angeles in September.

When the Round Mountain Mining company, on March 25, pays its latest dividend, amounting to $15,000, the treasury still will contain the comfortable sum of $60,000. This is one of the propositions here during the boom days of Nevada that has made good in a most substantial way.

From an official source it is learned that the Utah Copper company will try out in a section of its Boston mill a certain auxiliary process which is guaranteed—without extra expense except the relatively small cost of installation—to effect an additional saving of at least one-tenth of one per cent of output.

The Humboldt Mining company has declared a monthly dividend of 50 cents per share, payable March 25. The last dividend, which was at the same rate, was declared November 16, 1909. The company has paid dividends for twenty-eight consecutive years, and in that time disbursed $21,406,285 to stockholders.

Assessing that the operation of the Washoe smelter at Anaconda, Mont., involving vegetation and timber, eroding the soil and inflicting approximately 1,200 square miles of country in the counties of Jefferson and Lincoln, suit has been filed in the United States district court at Helena on behalf of the United States against the Anaconda Copper Mining company for an injunction to close down the plant, which is the largest copper smelter in the world.

"Why, indeed, how did you start up that kiddie's name without looking it up?" With eyes that were somewhat askance, the bishop's prayer—baptized he they name?—Baltimore Magazine.
